

Data privacy policy

April 2023

Data privacy policy

This Data privacy policy outlines QED Group's (QED), commitment to using and protecting any information that you give to us when you use our website, qedgroup.co.

QED is committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected. Should we ask you to provide certain information by which you can be identified when using our website, you can be assured that it will only be used in accordance with this policy. This privacy policy is effective from April 2023.

Legals notice

Our website: qedgroup.co, has been developed for information purposes only and relates solely to QED Group Ltd. It is aimed at international commercial clients, prospects, potential investors and industry stakeholders only.

QED is not liable for any action you may take as a result of relying on any information provided in this website or for any loss or damage suffered by you as a result of you taking this action. QED tries hard to make sure that all of the information contained on this website is correct, but it does not accept any liability for any error or omission. All of our services are subject to change without notification on this website.

All material contained in this website is only provided for the purpose of providing information about QED and the expert commercial support it provides. Any purchase or other transaction in relation to any services provided by QED, will be subject to contractual terms. In particular, none of this information constitutes an offer to sell you any kind of investment and you should not rely on it in connection with any investment decision.

Changes to disclaimer

QED may occasionally change the disclaimer set out above from time to time. By browsing this website you are accepting that you are bound by the current disclaimer and so you should check this each time you revisit the site. The law of England and Wales applies. We recommend that you check this page from time to time to ensure that you are happy with any changes.

Privacy statement

QED respects the privacy of every individual who visits our website and we are committed to providing a website that is accessible and inclusive to the widest possible audience, regardless of age, gender, belief system, technology or physical ability. Our policy on the collection and use of personal information is outlined below.

- We collect and use personal information for business purposes only

- We will not sell, distribute or lease your personal information to third parties unless we have your permission, or are required by law to do so
- We will not disclose any personally identifiable information without your permission unless we are legally entitled to do so
- On accessing our website you will be treated as having given your permission for disclosures referred to in this policy.

What we collect

We may collect the following information for business purposes only:

- Name and email address
- Non-personal webographic information, such as the internet browser used to access our site.

What we do with the information we gather

We require this information to understand your needs and provide you with a better service. Providing you with the highest level of service is of paramount importance to us. In order to help us do this, we may use the information you supply us for:

- Internal record keeping and tracking of sales data
- Periodic contact
- Occasionally sending you information about our services or other information which we think you may find interesting, or requesting market research input.

Where applicable we will provide an “opt-out” policy for this service.

Non-personal information

We may automatically collect non-personal information about you such as the type of internet browsers you use or the website from which you linked to our website. You cannot be identified from this information and it is only used to assist us in providing an effective service on this website.

Information placed on your computer

We may store some information (known as a “cookie”), on your computer when you access our site. This information facilitates your use of our website and ensures that you do not need to re-enter your details every time you visit it. You can erase or block this information from your computer if you wish to.

Keeping our records accurate

We aim to keep our information about you as accurate as possible. If you would like to review or change the details you have supplied us with, please email us or contact us using the ‘Contact us’ page of the website.

Data security

We are committed to ensuring that the information you provide to us online is secure. We have implemented technology and managerial policies to safeguard your privacy from unauthorised access and improper use. We will continue to update these measures with new technological advancements.

Third parties

We cannot be responsible for the privacy policies and practices of other websites even if you access them using links from our website. We recommend that you check the privacy policy of each website you visit.

In addition, if you linked to our website from a third party website, we cannot be responsible for the privacy policies and practices of the owners or operators or the third party website from which you linked to our website and recommend that you check the policy of that third party website and contact the owner or operator of such website if you have any concerns or questions.

Governance

This policy is set by the QED Group Board and reviewed and approved annually. We are committed to implementing this policy across the QED Group.

Dr Keith Daly

Chairman
QED Group Ltd.